What is DegreeWorks?

College of Coastal Georgia has implemented a new degree auditing system called DegreeWorks. DegreeWorks is a web tool that provides real-time advice for students and their advisors to monitor the student’s progress towards graduation. The program includes the degree requirements such as core courses and program courses that are needed for your major by areas. Degree works can be found under COAST in the myCCGA portal. To login, push the MyCCGA button on the top right of the CCGA webpage, login to the portal and click on COAST. Click on Student Records and Student Records again, and then click DegreeWorks (last option). Your worksheet will automatically default to your official major, but you can change the worksheet by selecting "what-if".

Student Info: It shows information on the student such as, name, ID number, classification, major, advisor, and GPA.

Legend: The legend key shows completed courses, not completed courses, in-progress courses, and areas that are near complete.

Progress Bar: This shows the progress of your degree. The top bar shows how much of the actual requirements you have completed. The credits bar shows how many credits have been completed but not necessarily towards your actual major.

Degree Category: This shows the areas of your major that has been completed or still needed.

Core Curriculum: This shows areas A-E of the core curriculum. The core courses are needed by all students no matter the major. It includes the grades, hours, and the terms that the classes were taken.

Major Category: This shows the actual program courses that are needed for your major.
Additional Requirements: This category shows the CPC and Legislative requirements. The CPC requirements are satisfied by completing the required number of courses in high school, or completing one semester of a college level course that the student may be deficient in. The legislative requirements are to show competency in U.S. and Georgia Constitution and U.S. and Georgia History. It also includes the CCGA seminar for a new incoming freshman to complete. Once the student has reached sophomore classification the requirement is automatically satisfied. The last requirement is the two credit hours in physical education courses.

Additional Courses: This shows additional courses that were successfully completed that are not currently being used by DW. This usually results from changing your major and there is no place to use your previous classes in your new program. However, you can work with your advisor for possible options to see if these courses could be used in another place.

Insufficient Grades: Courses that were not completed due to a failing grade or the student withdrew from the course.

Notes: This section displays notes of any time you make contact with your advisor. Stating what was discussed and any referrals that were made.
