LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT & BOARD CHAIR

Dear Friends and Supporters,

Because of your remarkable generosity and unwavering commitment, 2025 was truly a historic year for the College of Coastal Georgia.

For the first time in our history, we surpassed $3 million in fundraising—a monumental milestone made even more extraordinary by marked growth: five consecutive years of increased fundraising. Your belief in our mission is stronger than ever, and these record results reflect a community deeply invested in the power of higher education.

This historic momentum was felt across every corner of our campus. We experienced a record-breaking year for the Navigator Society, achieving unprecedented highs in both dollars raised and total leadership donors. These results are far more than statistics—they represent lives changed, financial barriers removed, and dynamic opportunities created for our students.

Your support directly equips a growing cohort of future leaders and innovators with the confidence and academic excellence needed to thrive. As our campus physical footprint continues to expand—anchored by major developments like the Center for the Arts and the Miriam and Hugh Nunnally Hall expansion—your investment ensures our campus remains a premier destination for academic excellence, career preparation, and student success.

On behalf of the College and the Foundation, thank you for your vision, your trust, and your relentless dedication to our students. Together, we aren't just setting records—we are shaping the future of Coastal Georgia.

With deepest gratitude,

Johnny Evans Jr., Ph.D.

HIGHLIGHTS

MOMENTUM CONTINUES AT COASTAL GEORGIA

2025 was another remarkable year of growth for the College of Coastal Georgia. The institution achieved its highest fundraising total ever, raising more than $3.82 million and extending a five-year streak of annual fundraising increases.

The College also continued its upward enrollment momentum, earning the University System of Georgia Chancellor's Cup twice in 2025. The Chancellor's Cup recognizes institutions with the highest increase in full-time equivalent enrollment within their sector. Coastal Georgia led the state colleges sector in both the spring and summer semesters, securing its third and fourth consecutive Chancellor's Cup victories.

The College recorded a 7.8% enrollment increase in spring 2025 compared to spring 2024 and a 12.36% increase in summer 2025 compared to the previous year.

"This four-peat is more than a trophy. It's a testament to the transformative work happening across our campus," said Dr. Johnny Evans Jr., president of the College of Coastal Georgia, following the institution's fourth consecutive win. "We're not just growing in numbers. We're growing in impact."

Building on that momentum, the College began the fall semester with a total enrollment of 3,629 students, a 4.4% increase over the previous year. The College matched the largest freshman class in its history, welcoming 828 new Mariners. In addition, Coastal Georgia surpassed its 2024 dual enrollment record, with 502 high school students taking college courses.

Residence Life also experienced strong demand, with all campus housing reaching full capacity. The College Foundation's Coastal Place Apartments were 100% occupied, and additional student housing was secured at Country Inn & Suites and Pointe Grand Apartments to accommodate continued enrollment growth.

The College attributes this sustained increase in enrollment to its strong academic programs, expanded recruitment and outreach efforts, and growing regional demand for accessible, high-quality higher education.

EXPANDING EXCELLENCE: A NEW ERA FOR NURSING AND HEALTH SCIENCES

The College broke ground on a new addition to Miriam and Hugh Nunnally Hall, creating expanded facilities that will provide students in the School of Nursing and Health Sciences with more realistic, hands-on clinical experiences in a safe and controlled environment.

The groundbreaking ceremony featured remarks from University System of Georgia Chancellor Sonny Perdue, College President Dr. Johnny Evans Jr., and Dr. Lydia Watkins, distinguished chair of Southeast Georgia Health System and dean of the School of Nursing and Health Sciences.

Watkins noted that the program had reached a critical point, with existing labs, simulation rooms, classrooms, and support spaces limiting its capacity for growth. In 2023, state lawmakers approved $16 million for the capital expansion project.

The expansion will include nine simulation rooms within the Simulation Center, a labor and delivery room with a dedicated infant care area, a medical-surgical room, an operating room, and five intensive care unit simulation rooms. The number of beds in the nursing skills labs will increase from 15 to 40. The addition will also support increased enrollment in both the nursing and radiologic science programs.

“This expansion marks a transformative step forward, significantly enhancing what we can offer to our students,” Watkins said. “These spaces will immerse students in high-intensity, real-life scenarios under the guidance of our simulation specialist and faculty members, helping them build critical thinking, clinical judgment, and bedside confidence.”

Construction began shortly after the groundbreaking, with Winter Construction serving as the general contractor and McMillan Pazdan Smith Architecture leading the design of the expansion.

In October, members of the College administration attended a topping-out ceremony hosted by Winter Construction. Construction workers, representatives from Winter Construction and Ogeechee Steel Inc., and College administrators signed the final structural beam before it was lifted into place atop the building.

Community support for the School of Nursing and Health Sciences continued throughout the year. In December, members of the GFWC Brunswick Woman's Club presented a $1,000 donation to Watkins to support the club's longstanding nursing scholarship. Established in 1967, the scholarship assists nontraditional nursing students from Glynn, McIntosh, Camden, Brantley, and Wayne counties.

For more than a century, the GFWC Brunswick Woman's Club has strengthened the community through volunteer service and fundraising efforts that support local initiatives in the arts, education, the environment, and other areas.

Following the presentation, club members viewed renderings and floor plans of the expansion project and explored the program's new Anatomage Table, an interactive, touch-sensitive learning tool that provides 3D visualizations for anatomy and medical education. Users can virtually dissect full-scale images of human subjects and remove layers to reveal bones, muscles, veins, and other anatomical structures.

Innovative educational technology such as the Anatomage Table will soon have a permanent home in the expanded Nunnally Hall, further enhancing the learning experience for future healthcare professionals.

DRIVING VALUE FOR STUDENTS AND EMPLOYEES

Parker’s Convenience Stores partnered with the College to provide every student, faculty, and staff member with a complimentary Parker’s PumpPal®/PumpPerks card. This exclusive benefit offers a $0.10-per-gallon fuel discount and 10% off in-store merchandise purchases (excluding alcohol, lottery, and tobacco products) at participating Parker’s locations.

The partnership is designed to provide meaningful savings for the College community while introducing more people to the quality products and exceptional service that Parker’s is known for throughout the Southeast.

“Our mission is to be a good neighbor and to give back to the communities we serve,” said Patrick Parker, president of The Parker Companies. “This program is a way to say ‘thank you’ and help put more money back into people’s pockets.”

Parker’s and Coastal Georgia Athletics also teamed up throughout the basketball season to host the Parker’s Halftime Challenge, giving students an opportunity to win cash prizes. Participants were challenged to make both a free throw and a layup within 15 seconds for a chance to win $250, courtesy of Parker’s.

This collaboration reflects a shared commitment to supporting education, strengthening community connections, and delivering tangible benefits to the students, faculty, staff, and families who live, learn, and work in Coastal Georgia.

CHARTING THE COURSE FOR ACADEMIC AND CAREER ACHIEVEMENT

The College's COMPASS Career and Academic Advising office earned the 2025 Regents' Momentum Award for Excellence in Advising and Student Success from the University System of Georgia. The award recognizes institutional advising programs that create clear pathways to student success, persistence, and completion.

In January 2020, the College merged academic and career advising into a single unit, establishing COMPASS Career and Academic Advising. The integration created a more holistic approach to student growth and development, enabling students to begin with the end in mind and receive support throughout their college experience. The College was an early pioneer of this model. While many institutions continue to separate academic and career advising, Coastal Georgia has successfully integrated career planning into its academic advising framework.

Award criteria included fostering a productive mindset among students, guiding them through a clear path to graduation, and helping them make purposeful decisions aligned with their goals, interests, and abilities.

The award committee praised COMPASS for its innovative model, commitment to career readiness, and investment in helping students stay on a path to academic and professional success.

Director of Career and Academic Advising Pat Morris credits the award to the COMPASS advising team.

"It's due to the hard work of the staff. They help each other and work together as a team," Morris said. "Our advisors are trained in both areas of advising and are constantly reaching out to students."

COMPASS advisors help first-year students develop academic and career goals, then continue providing career-planning support as students work with faculty advisors throughout the remainder of their studies. Advisors also host workshops, classroom presentations, career fairs, and individual coaching sessions that connect academic experiences with career opportunities.

By bridging the gap between academic planning and career preparation, COMPASS has become a one-stop advising center that equips students with the tools, guidance, and confidence needed to succeed in college and beyond.

SET UP FOR SUCCESS

College of Coastal Georgia alumna Riley Elkins '25 achieved a remarkable milestone when she was accepted into the University of California, Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, widely regarded as the nation's top veterinary program. Elkins was the only student from Georgia admitted to the Class of 2029 and earned one of just 20 seats reserved for out-of-state students.

Originally from Powder Springs, Georgia, Elkins discovered the College while exploring her college options in high school. After attending Destination Coastal, she was drawn to the College's welcoming environment, small class sizes, and opportunities to build meaningful relationships with faculty.

"I came down here with my mom and just immediately fell in love," Elkins said. "It felt like home."

Elkins found that Coastal Georgia and the Brunswick area offered everything she needed to prepare for a career in veterinary medicine. She completed coursework in animal sciences, conducted research, volunteered at the Georgia Sea Turtle Center and local farms, and gained hands-on experience as a veterinary assistant at Seaside Veterinary Hospital.

"Many people think that a small school wouldn't prepare you the way a big school would," Elkins said. "It may be a small school, but it can really set you up for success."

Beyond the classroom, Elkins was deeply involved in campus life, serving as a student ambassador, tutor, supplemental instructor, Student Government Association senator, and leader of several student organizations.

By taking advantage of the opportunities available at Coastal Georgia and throughout the Golden Isles, Elkins built an impressive record of academic achievement, leadership, and veterinary experience. Her acceptance to UC Davis reflects not only her hard work and determination, but also the transformative opportunities available to students at the College of Coastal Georgia.

ELEVATING STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP

The Southeastern Psychological Association's (SEPA) annual meeting brings together leading researchers and the latest developments in the field of psychology. For more than a decade, College of Coastal Georgia students and faculty have shared their research at the conference, which promotes the exchange of scientific and professional ideas across the discipline. In 2025, 18 students, four alumni, and four faculty members were accepted to present at the annual meeting in Atlanta, gaining invaluable professional experience.

The conference provides students with an opportunity to explore the wide range of careers and research topics within psychology. According to Professor of Psychology Dr. Kimberly Mannahan, it also exposes students to cutting-edge research before it is published.

"You get to have actual conversations with the people who did the research and ask questions or make suggestions," Mannahan said. "People would read students' posters, talk with them about their projects, and make suggestions. It has inspired some to pursue follow-up studies."

To prepare for the conference, students practiced 90-second elevator pitches for their poster presentations and received guidance on professionalism, networking, and presentation skills.

"Anytime a student gets back from the conference, you can tell who went to SEPA and who didn't by the way they carry themselves on campus," Mannahan said. "They have a different level of confidence. They feel a connection to the field as a whole instead of just studying it."

Students and faculty presented research on a variety of topics, including parasocial relationships, the effects of music, emotional support and service animals, social media, and cultural perceptions. Associate Professor of Psychology Dr. Aurora Ramos Núñez participated in a discussion on engaging online students through innovative class activities and assignments, while Professor of Psychology Dr. Brian Pope presided over a conference session. The conference also provides valuable networking opportunities and allows students to see the research being conducted at institutions across the region. The College's strong representation continued in 2026, when more than 20 students and recent graduates were accepted to present at the conference in New Orleans.

Student participation was supported through funding from the Department of Social Sciences and undergraduate research grants from the ENDEAVOR Center.

SCHOLARSHIPS & GIFTS

UNEARTHING OPPORTUNITIES FOR ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE STUDENTS

The Golden Isles Gem & Mineral Society, Inc., whose mission is to educate people about gems, minerals, and the beauty of the natural environment, contributed $13,600 to the College's Experiential Learning Fund to support the environmental science program.

The gift will enhance field-based learning opportunities for students by helping create and sustain field courses and educational trips. Funds may be used to support travel expenses, student accommodations, and geological equipment for field research.

Through this investment, the Society is helping provide environmental science students with hands-on experiences that deepen classroom learning and strengthen their understanding of the natural world.

BUILDING A STRONGER WORKFORCE THROUGH EDUCATION

Christie and Tim Kinsey are dedicated philanthropists and community leaders with deep ties to both West Virginia and the Golden Isles. Together, they have served on numerous boards and founded philanthropic initiatives that have made a lasting impact on the communities they have called home.

Now residents of Jekyll Island, the Kinseys remain actively involved in local organizations and the region's cultural life. To support workforce development and strengthen the local hospitality industry, they established two scholarships: the Christie and Tim Kinsey Endowed Scholarship and the Christie and Tim Kinsey Scholarship.

These scholarships will benefit students who have graduated from culinary arts programs and are pursuing degrees in hospitality, tourism, or event management. The Kinseys have fully funded the $25,000 endowment; however, while those funds build long-term value, the endowed payout is temporarily on hold. To ensure students receive immediate support without delay, the Kinseys are making annual contributions through their restricted scholarship fund. Once the endowment balance grows enough to independently match the full award amount, those annual contributions will conclude, and the self-sustaining endowment will take over permanently.

Through this generous strategy, the Kinseys are making an immediate impact while securing a permanent investment in the future of the Golden Isles' hospitality and tourism industry.

A LASTING TRIBUTE

Memorial scholarships serve as lasting tributes to individuals whose lives made a difference. By supporting future generations of students, these gifts create enduring opportunities while preserving the values and impact of those being honored.

Ivan Glymph's kindness and attentiveness had a profound impact on a donor's life. In gratitude for that act of care, the Ivan Glymph Memorial Endowed Scholarship was established in his honor to support veteran students, reflecting the values and legacy he embodied throughout his life.

Glymph grew up in Florida and joined the U.S. Navy, serving as an aviation electronics technician through various deployments until 1977. He also served in the U.S. Naval Reserve from 1977 to 1979. During his military career, he was recognized for his outstanding technical expertise, professionalism, and devotion to duty, qualities he continued to demonstrate.

He earned a bachelor's degree in nutrition and fitness from Florida State University and enjoyed a career in wellness and physical therapy. Later, Glymph became a licensed massage therapist and worked at Sea Island Resorts from 2006 to 2012. He was well liked by coworkers, frequently offered advice and encouragement, and was often requested by name by resort guests.

Those who knew Glymph described him as a true joy to be around. His quirky sense of humor, quick wit, and bright intelligence made him a memorable presence, while his love and devotion to family and friends were unmatched. Through this scholarship, his legacy of service, compassion, and generosity will continue to make a difference in the lives of future students.

Other memorial scholarships created in 2025 included the:

- Jann Swanson Memorial Scholarship
- Delle Bryant Vicent Memorial Endowed Scholarship

ATHLETICS

A YEAR OF ACHIEVEMENT AND MOMENTUM FOR COASTAL ATHLETICS

Coastal Athletics enjoyed a successful year marked by competitive achievements, postseason appearances, national recognition, leadership transitions, and outstanding student-athlete accomplishments across multiple programs at the College of Coastal Georgia.

After 10 seasons leading the men's basketball program, Head Coach Jesse Watkins announced his departure from the College. Watkins took over the program in 2014 following the retirement of coaching legend Gerald Cox. During his tenure, he coached 16 All-Conference players, three National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) All-Americans, and six Conference All-Academic selections. Watkins played a vital role in the continued growth and development of the Mariners men's basketball program.

In April, Tim MacAllister was named the new head coach of the men's basketball program. The 2025-26 season marked his first at the helm of the Mariners.

Women's basketball student-athlete Iesha Rhodin earned Winter Academic All-Conference honors. A two-time recipient of the award, Rhodin maintained a perfect 4.0 grade-point average while majoring in business.

The softball program posted a strong season, finishing with a 35-19 overall record and a 15-9 mark in Sun Conference play. The Mariners advanced to the opening round of the NAIA National Tournament, while several players received significant recognition. Rylee Mills was nominated by The Sun Conference for the prestigious A.O. Duer Scholarship Award, and both Mills and Rylie Smith earned National Fastpitch Coaches Association (NFCA) All-Region honors. Mills and Emma Jones were named First Team All-Conference, while Smith and Kaitlyn Carolino received Second Team All-Conference recognition.

Men's tennis secured the No. 4 seed in the Sun Conference Tournament by defeating Warner University in the regular-season finale, extending the program's streak to six consecutive postseason appearances. Kaden McArthur earned Second Team All-Sun Conference honors.

Women's tennis closed its home schedule with a victory over Warner University, while senior Azul Malatani earned 2025 Spring Academic All-Sun Conference honors for her excellence both in the classroom and on the court.

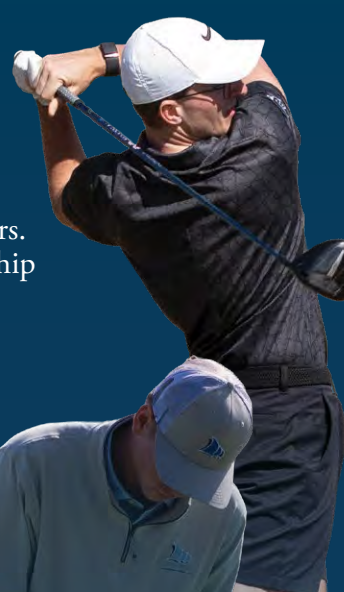

Men's golf continued its tradition of excellence, finishing fourth at the Sun Conference Championship at Pine Lakes. Lee Smith led the Mariners with a third-place individual finish and was joined by Antonio Juarbe and Bo Shuler as All-Sun Conference selections. The team's strong performance earned an at-large bid to the NAIA National Championship at TPC Deere Run in Silvis, Illinois. Although the Mariners missed the 36-hole cut, they proudly represented the College on the national stage.

Head Coach Mike Cook earned Sun Conference Coach of the Year honors during his 15th season with the program. At the time of the award, the Mariners were ranked No. 11 nationally.

Women's golf also delivered an impressive season, placing third at the Sun Conference Championship at Pine Lakes. Madelyn Taylor and Elise Forberg recorded top-10 individual finishes, placing sixth and seventh, respectively, and both earned All-Sun Conference honors. The team received an at-large bid to the NAIA National Championship at Eagle Crest Golf Club in Ypsilanti, Michigan, marking the program's first national championship appearance since 2021.

Taylor was further recognized as The Sun Conference Champion of Character for the second consecutive year, highlighting her exemplary leadership, sportsmanship, and commitment to the values of intercollegiate athletics.
